Pensacola, Florida.

Some Facts About Pensacola of Interest to Investors and Home Seekers—A City That is Progressive, Happy and Rich—A City With a Bright Future.

The city of Pensacola has just reason to be proud. She has always been considered one of the healthiest cities in the world. Situated in north latitude 30° 24' 33" and west longitude 87° 12' 63", she enjoys the natural advantages which nature gives—an equable temperature restricted to summer and winter, the changes being by easy gradation, without the suddenness which would tend to shock the most sensitive or delicate human organism where ordinary care is observed for the protection of health.

Our summers are made pleasant by the ever present chlorinated breezes from the Gulf of Mexico, both cooling and invigorating. At an early hour the nights are rendered cool and pleasant by the rapid radiation of heat down to the warmer water of Pensacola bay and the gulf, and thus we secure a refreshing land breeze, and the draught made on every day through the day is adjusted by a comfortable night's rest, maintaining ever the freshness of health and promoting longevity.

The city is situated on the Bay of Pensacola, about eight miles from the Gulf of Mexico, protected from the northern winds by elevated lands. A sandy soil gently sloping to the bay with a stratum of clay varying in depth from twenty to forty feet, renders an effectual surface and deep drainage. Such physical conditions constitute nature's own system of sewerage. The general health of the city is good. Eruptive diseases are seldom seen, and then only sporadically and often traced to distant origin.
Typhoid and malarial fevers are so infrequent that they scarcely deserve allusion in this brief reference to the health of our city. Yellow fever has become distinctly an unknown entity. Suffice it to say that for the past ten years, according to statistics from the Escambia county and state boards of health that our mortality rate is twenty-two per thousand per annum. This is an excellent record, and should satisfy the most morbid on the subject of health.

There is an abundance of blue sea crabs, shrimp, delicious oysters, scallops, clams, all to be had for the taking.
If something else exciting is desired one may fish for tarpon, red fish, horse mackerel or man-eating shark. It is no trouble to hook a shark and not nearly so dangerous as most people imagine, but to land one is most exciting.
Pensacola is one of the largest fish markets in the world, and is famous for the fine red snapper of the Gulf, which is shipped from here to all parts of the country by the firm of E. E. Saunders & Co., one of the largest fish dealers in the United States.

Those who delight in the early history of America will be glad to remember that Pensacola is the oldest American city, will be pleased to see the old buildings that have existed under three governments, will have great interest in visiting old Fort San Carlos, a century older than the government, will look with interest upon the waters where the fleet of the unfortunate DeSoto rendezvoused three years during his fatal search for gold, will view with meditation the almost obliterated ruins of
